Schedule - 2015 NEPA Audubon Wildlife Art & Craft Festival

The 2015 NEPA Wildlife Art & Craft Festival will feature continuous presentations of live animals by some of the top wildlife experts in the Northeast. These animals can be seen up close and in a way few people ever get to see. How they live, their habits, what they eat, and why they are a lot more afraid of people than people are of them will be explained in easy to understand detail that you and your children will never forget.

Here's the schedule:

Sat 11 am: Pocono Wildlife Rehabilitation Center; Kathy and Eric Uhler will present a great show with live animals and birds

Sat 1 pm and 3 pm: "Close Encounters With Birds of Prey", by Bill Streeter from the Delaware Valley Raptor Center

Sun 11 am: Pocono Wildlife Rehabilitation Center; Kathy and Eric Uhler again

Sun 1 and 3 pm: Pocono Snake and Animal Farm will present their exciting show with reptiles and animals

The Pocono Wildlife Rehabilitation Center does "walk-arounds" with animals throughout the Festival, and will also will have a display with live birds of prey and animals throughout both days of the festival.

Additionally, Sculpted Ice Works of the Pocono Mountains will again be doing an ice sculpture of native animals outside of the school for visitors enjoyment both days of the Festival.

Held July 18 & 19 at the Wallenpaupack High School, this Festival is a "must see" for anyone interested in nature and wildlife. Visit us at www.audubonfestival.com
